Office Action Summary

Art Unit: 2124

1. The drawings are objected to because the drawings contain sheet 12 (Expressions) and sheets 13-14 (Tables). Sheets 12-13 should be removed. Correction is required.

2. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities:

The Expressions in sheet 12 should be entered in the appropriate locations in the specification.

Appropriate correction is required.

3. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

First, claims 1-4 recite an apparatus for performing a mathematical function. The claims merely solve a problem without any limitation to a practical application. The claims recite means plus functions to perform data. The data is merely inputted to the system and then outputted.

Moreover, the instant apparatus does not provide any specific elements to perform the function(s).

The apparatus claims do not recite a specific machine. Instead, it is recited that a non-specific machine accomplishes the manipulation of data, the data having no pre-or post-computer use.

Second, claims 5-8 recite a method for performing a mathematical function. The claimed invention comprises a plurality of mental steps whereby the claimed mental steps are non-statutory subject matter. Specifically, the claimed method steps can be practiced mentally in conjunction with pen and paper. However, in order for such a claimed computer-related process to be statutory, the method claims must include either a step that results: (1) in a physical transformation outside the computer, (2) in a limitation to a practical application, or (3) performed specific machine/element(s). Accordingly, claims 1-8 are directed to non-statutory subject matter.

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Cited reference is art of interest.
